WHAT: Dozens of skilled workers, volunteered by local companies: Home Depot, Swinerton Builders, ValleyCrest Landscape Development and volunteers from other companies team up to construct "Torii Hunter Field" in Placentia, Calif. Torii Hunter Field is a community project launched in 2007 by Magical Builders, a non-profit, 501(c)(3) organization founded by Christy Frank and Jon Frank, a partner with the law offices of Snell & Wilmer in Costa Mesa, Calif.

Interviews: At work-Home Depot employees, Magical Builders volunteers; Jon and Christy Frank, founders of Magical Builders; spokespersons from Home Depot, Swinerton Builders, ValleyCrest, City of Placentia, and Boys and Girls Club.

Community: To raise awareness of Magical Builders' Torii Hunter Field and recognize donations and support given by Angels Baseball Foundation, the law offices of Snell & Wilmer, Home Depot, Swinerton Builders, ValleyCrest Landscape Development and others listed below. Human Interest: Magical Builders invites the community to get involved: a monetary or landscaping donation can be made at www.magicalbuilders.org. Torii Hunter Field is named after the Angels' center fielder who recently matched the Angels Baseball Foundation's initial $50,000 donation for the field's construction.
